Objectives of DELL in brief:

The prime objective of this project is to augment higher educational institutes with ICT infrastructure. Once the DELLS are installed, it will function as knowledge centers. Various vocational and professional courses based on honing of language and other soft skills shall run 24X7 in these DELLS. The DELL which is LAN and internet connected and has multimedia PCs shall have optimum capacity to run various e-Resources for all the courses taught at higher education level. Though the dominant concern of DELL is to teach Communicative English in SLM (self Learning Module), but it can be utilized for other subjects like personality development, business communication, internet and computer skills, entrepreneurship, time management and online evaluation. As the DELL supports internet connectivity, it also opens up the window to the web world for research purpose to the teachers and e-resources for students. We have read the Guidelines for DELL and we undertake to provide the necessary support in the form of following 'Areas of Commitment'.
